TCSO/TULSA TECH TO HOST TRAINING FOR SCHOOL RESOURCE OFFICERS FROM ACROSS THE STATE

During a time when the threat of school violence is constant concern for parents and educators, School Resource Officers play a vital role in keeping our kids safe.

More than 20 attendees from across the Sooner State will spend the week of June 19th through the 23rd at the Owasso Tulsa Tech Campus attending the National Association of School Resource Officers course. They will learn about important issues such as: Preventing crime and violence in a school setting, drugs trends, social media, diversity, sex trafficking and understanding an SRO's role as a counselor and mentor.

“Our hope is that these officers will take the lessons from this course and use them to protect and mentor students in their communities”, says Undersheriff George Brown.
